Dear Bereans,

On behalf of our colleagues on the Presidential Search Committee, we are pleased to announce the national search for Berea College's next president is about to get underway. We are grateful to the entire community for providing valuable input and insights that helped inform the Search Committee's understanding of skills, attributes, and important work ahead for our tenth president. Working collaboratively with our partners from Academic Search, we have prepared a Search Prospectus to provide an overview of Berea, outline key priorities and institutional needs, and describe the desired characteristics for our next president. The prospectus will introduce Berea and the presidential opportunity to potential candidates.

Following this announcement, the position will be advertised in a wide variety of publications and the formal recruiting process will begin. Our partners from Academic Search will be busy in the coming months as presidential candidates are identified and actively encouraged to apply. If you know of someone whom you would like to recommend for consideration, please send their name and contact information directly to BereaPresident@academicsearch.org.

The committee will begin the process of reviewing applications in late August. We are excited about this work and have confidence the search will bring us an inspirational, innovative, and collaborative leader who will strategically advance and strengthen Berea College for the future.

We will provide periodic progress updates, which will be emailed to the campus community and posted on the Presidential Search webpage: <https://www.berea.edu/presidentalsearch/>

We hope you have a relaxing and enjoyable summer!

Sincerely,

Charlotte Beason '70
